Coming Events Cast Their Shadows . . .
"We have been asked for the impossible. Let us do it, as usual."
That's what the president of one big company said to the employees; that's what he told them about the enormous war production job that his firm must do.
He's right about it, too. Like thousands of other companies, this one has done the impossible in peace-time. That's been the history of American industry—doing things that couldn't be done. Radios, airplanes, movies—every one of the modern inventions that we accept so casually now was "impossible" at one time. Yet we Americans did them.
And now in wartime we're still doing things that couldn't be done. We've got a long way to go, it's true, but we're off to a flying start. Since Pearl Harbor airplane production has gone up more than 50 per cent, and that's only the beginning. One plant reports that it is now building huge bombers on the same kind of moving assembly line that made it possible for our automobile companies to turn out millions of cars a year. Steel production has reached an all-time high. Daily production of crude oil is about 20 per cent over what it was a year ago. One company is making more cartridges in one year than all the American plants together did in the World War. Another is already doing everything Donald Nelson asked for recently—and more—in its war production program.

In the grim news that fills our papers today facts like these are important. They're straws in the wind—the production wind that's growing into a hurricane that will smash the Axis. There's a lot of "impossible" work that we must do before that happens. No matter. We're used to "impossible" work. When we Americans make up our minds, pitch in and work together, nothing in the world can stop us.

Triple Duty
During peacetime more than $300,000,000 was spent here in America in a single year to develop new products that would make our lives more comfortable. In research laboratories all over the country many thousands of men and women worked at the endless task of raising our standard of living higher and always higher.

Today those great industrial research laboratories have another job. They're working now to protect our freedom and the comfortable way of life that they helped to create. For our armed forces they have already developed airplanes, tanks and guns that are superior in many ways to foreign makes. And they are constantly improving on themselves, constantly making weapons that are better than anything they have made to date.

"They're busy, too, devising ways by which they can make our peacetime goods last longer, now that we'll have to do without many new products until the war is over. They've already perfected methods of caring for automobile tires to stretch the wear we get from them. They've developed ways to extend the use of that wood, plastics, and many other products give us.

Such facts indicate that our industries today are not only sweating for victory on the firing lines; they are working for it on the home front, too. And they are planning ahead to the post-war period, figuring out new wonder products that can be manufactured then to raise our standard of living higher than anything we've ever known in the past.

Prob'ly Facts
By DICK LEFLIS

Since Dick LeFlis asked me to write his column this week I think this is a good opportunity for me to introduce myself. I am Jim Howington, better known as the Editor of this paper. So, don't expect too much today. Three or four people have asked me why I do not have a column like the former Editors had. They even went so far as to suggest a name for it. Buster Willis had his "Willis Waile", Frank Shively had his "Frankly Speaking", and Margaret Brown had her "Interviewing Reporter". They want me to call mine "Howington Howls". Can you beat that? I'll admit there are plenty of things here I could rant about but let me get into the swing of things before I stick my neck out.

If you think running a newspaper is an easy job to just watch news items and write them up, you are wrong. It is a job that goes on every day and every night. News is hard to get. Even if there is news, somebody don't want me to print it or that of course I have to cooperate. That war cooperation is a good word but

SPRING FLIGHT
The next season is in swing, better than 6,000 acres of "outside" lands.
Harrison Raoul, P. C. Keese, Krumsig, Slim Rutledge, Roscoe Braddock and Arthur Wells are among the men who are working on the six-mile and nine-mile bend area that is being cultivated at the present time.
In these a thousand dollars is still a unit of reckoning and the public has become careless about adding one to four oughts for conversational purposes. None of the oughts in the above list have been carelessly added.
There has been added an industry long needed at Belle Glade—a large orange plant. This plant can handle ten cars of beans per day, or an average of about 1,000 cars per season, which is better than half a million dollars to the farmers of the country.

Gibb talk has been going the rounds recently and some of it has been by Jose Jones' boys about huge dehydrating plants to provide foodstuffs of our own and lend-a-hand to the country. The ranchers of Florida, and a lot of those from other states, are now in the market for the Glades and depending on it for an outlet for thousands of beef cattle for fattening in the near future.

Yes, and if we can ever get our "good neighbors", politicians, and friendly enemies untangled, maybe we can grow some sugar.

Just Beginning
Ramey grows prolifically in the Glades than anywhere else in the world where it has been tried.

Citizens powerful in the financial world are spending money in the Glades in Ramey in hopes that it can be used commercially.

Plans are afoot by the owners to develop 1,200 acres south and east of Perry's quarter.

LETTER EXPLAINS DIFFERENCES IN CHILDREN'S UNITS
Frank Frans, president of the Belle Glade Chapter of the South Florida Crippled Children's Society has received a letter from J. Julian Southard, president of the South Florida Crippled Children's hospital, in which he defines differences between the two organizations.

It was pointed out that the hospital is the outgrowth of the society and the two formerly worked as a unit, but for the past year have operated entirely independently, with no overlapping interests. At present the society is engaged solely with its work with crippled children, while the hospital corporation is occupied with the problem of building a new hospital for the crippled children, which includes the collection of necessary funds. The goal originally set for the hospital fund was placed at $250,000 and was raised last year, but because of the increase in the prices of building material and also the effect that war has had on the collection of pledges, it is now necessary to seek additional donations in order to complete the task. The hospital is located in Coral Gables and is now well under construction. No donations have been solicited so far except in Greater Miami, but it has been pointed out that children all over South Florida, including Palm

Claudette Colbert and John Payne are the new romantic team in "Remember the Day."

AT THE THEATRE

It is certain that those who attend the shows this week at the Everglades will remember every day, starting off with Sunday and ending with Saturdays screening for there is a good program of pix selected for the old film-fare that should keep the fans on edge.

Sunday and Monday Claudette Colbert, that lovely with the complexion I'd like to have, and John Payne, heart throb for a lot of girls in the U. S. A., come in with "Remember the Day," in a plot that has a twist that's different. John Shepperd and Ann Todd are also in this show in a big way and with the excellent supporting cast they have thrown into this story it should please everyone.

Those two screw balls from Broadway, assisted Martha Raye, Hugh Herbert, Mpeha Auer and Robert Paige will come to town Tuesday with the greatest comedy riot ever to hit New York, and remain for an extended run, boasting capacity houses nightly. "Hellzapoppin'." Critics reviewing this pix say it is bigger, better, crazier and greater than the original stage production. The screw balls from Broadway who made "Hellzapoppin'" such a riot are Olsen and Johnson, making their first appearance before the cameras.

If you like swing, tuneful songs, hot hoofing and plenty of laughter see "Melody Lane," coming Wednesday and Thursday with the Merry Macs, Baby Sandy, Leon Errol, Anne Gwyne and Robert Paige.

On this same program is "Hurricane Smith," starring Ray Middleton and Jane Wyatt. It is the story of a man past that threatened his future. The story of a man who was unable to prove his innocence.

Friday night John Howard assisted by Lucile Fairbanks will be seen in "The man who returns."

ed to life." You see the law had declared him dead, well, that is legally. But he had a problem, he had to return from the grave in order to save a man's life.

"Right to the Heart," starring Brenda Joyce and Cobina. In this pix we will see Joseph Allen, Jr., who plays a right fine romantic young gent. Saturday Roy Rogers, with "Gabby" Hayes doing another Western thriller, "In Old Chevyenne," and the serial, "Riders of Death Valley," gives more thrills with every chapter.

RETURNS FROM TRIP

Lewis Bolton has just returned to Lake Harbor from Lake City where attended to the planting of 150 acres of Spanish peanuts on the J. L. Wood farm near there. Mr. Wood has a government contract to produce peanuts this season. The Florida farm program calls for doubling of the peanut acreage this year in the state.

HOW TO WORRY

"DER FURHER"

There are many ways to disturb Mr. Schleikgruber's alias Adolph Hitler's peace of mind. One of the more important ways are: Buy defense bonds. Your money may buy the gadget that releases the bomb that lands on the Munich beer cellar the day the man with the little mustache is there. Another way is to kill rumors. The Germans don't wait until they start falling on your house to find out. And one of the most important ways to heckle Hitler is to take the first aid courses. Don't let the little paper hanger find you unprepared.

Too Late To Classify

By RUSSELL KAY

The deep throated voice of an aroused American growled threateningly the past fortnight in a manner that caused genuine concern among congressmen and sent a chill of apprehension up and down the spines of arrogant labor leaders and selfish industrial tycoons.

The weak-hearted attempt of the administration to "laugh it off" as a synthetic expression instigated by minority group failed miserably and the menacing growl crescendoed into a mighty roar. America from border to border and coast to coast was aroused and made its feeling known in no uncertain terms.

Despite a marked improvement in the production of war materials and the elimination of strikes in war industries to a minimum, America, from the grass roots to the metropolis, snarled her dissatisfaction with the war effort and demanded more, much more.

Organized labor, attempting too late to crawl back in line with a promise of future good behavior, was called to account for its consistent record of domineering arrogance, sanctioned racketeering, and all around cantankerous activities as the stinging lash of outraged public opinion finally crashed about its ears.

With equal relentlessness did the public cat-o-nine-tails descend upon the backs of selfish and greedy industrialists, profiteers and political puppets responsible for retarding the war efforts and attempting to advance their own private or political interests contrary to the public welfare.

Started by the concerted volume of the national voice, the individual citizen, slow to realize his own contribution to the echo and tries to understand. Spontaneous thought it seemed, it really came as a result of long pent up emotions caused by the misuse of power and for which America's deep-seated sense of justice and fair play demanded a remedy.

Industry, long dominant, had formed the policy of trampolines roughed over the rights and interests of the laborer and the public alike, using every means in its power to gain its end as it surged ahead concerned alone with its own greed and selfishness.

This arrogant and heartless misuse of power brought industry into disrepute, made possible the rapid growth of equally powerful labor groups and caused government to take a hand with stringent and yet more stringent laws and regulations.

Shrewd political leaders took advantage of the situation to build strong fences as champions of the downtrodden laboring man. They flocked to labor meetings, insisted on "labor" on their literature, and threatened their many chests as they hurried to add interesting humorous facts and "watch out" for the "other fellow."

Organized labor, under the wise and able leadership of Samuel Gompers, made rapid strides and gained public esteem and sympathy. Government, encouraged, cracked down harder and harder on industry, at the same time, going out of its way to coddle and cater to labor. Uncontrolled and unhampered by government, labor found itself as dominant a power as ever cracked a whip. Reckless and radical leaders replaced the level headed Gompers. Racketeers took over local union groups; gangsters in the guise of business agents or delegates stepped in to line their pockets at the expense of the worker and public alike. The right to work in certain industries deteriorated from a free American institution to a relic of the hard cranked it now.

Unless organized labor rises in its might and cleans house in a big way, ridding itself of such unworthy leaders, and conducts its affairs with fairness to the employer and the public, America will surely pull its house down over its ears and it will awake to find itself stripped of a free American institution to a relic of the hard cranked it now.
